Saint Albans Anglican Church & Hall

Set on a generous 1,461m²* corner allotment in the heart of Port Wakefield, the historic Saint Albans Anglican Church and Hall present a truly unique and versatile property opportunity. Rich in local history and character, the church was originally built in 1873*, with the adjoining hall added in 1905*, having served the community over many decades for dances, fêtes, film nights, gatherings and celebrations.

Offering enormous potential for a wide range of future uses (subject to necessary approvals), this distinctive property combines historic charm with practical facilities and flexible spaces suitable for private use, creative ventures, community purposes, events, studio space or boutique business opportunities.

The original church building, measuring approximately 12m x 6.2m*, is filled with character and presents exciting possibilities for restoration, creative adaptation or continued community use. Currently used as a residence, its historic architecture and peaceful atmosphere create a unique setting rarely found on the market.

The substantial hall measures approximately 14m x 7.6m* and provides a spacious open-plan area ideal for entertaining, workshops, craft or hobby businesses, community activities or private functions. Complementing the hall
